Los Angeles. Will Probably Result in Giving This City Better Fire Department-Interest in the Matter Increasing—Another Meet-ing Today.

The conference between the insurance adjusters and Fire Commissioners at the Mayor's office at 11 o'clock yesterday morn-Mayor's office at 11 o'clock yesterday morning was attended by almost every insurance man in the city. Among those present were Messrs. McDonald, Sexton, Cofran, Grant and Farnsworth, the visiting adjusters, and Messrs. Mercer Otey, W. R. Burke, Capt. Smith and Fire Chief Mornarity, besides many others.

The meeting was called to order by Mayor Workman, who stated that the com-gestions that the insurance men and coffer.

Mercer Otey stated that as the representatives of all the Pacific Coast Insurance Union were in the city they had thought it a good opportunity to bring certain matters before the board and that, with this in view, he had written the letter to the board which had caused this meeting. The matters to be discussed: were better protection in case of fire, the increase of the fire department and the improvement of the electric-alarm system.

mease of me, the increase of the free department and the improvement of the electric-alarm system.

Mr. Farnsworth asked to have the contract with the City Water Company read. He understood that it called for the placing of fire hydrants at the corners of all cross streets, and that they had not compiled with it.

Mayor Workman said that such was the fact. The contract called for the placing of the hydrants, but they had not been put in. He said that they had had some trouble with the water company, and had finally passed an ordinance compelling them to put in about 30 hydrants, but they needed a great many more. The hill water system, ne said, was entirely different, and they were compelled to pay for all the hydrants they put in. The City Engineer had been instructed to have a number put in, and everything possible wouldbe done to guard against danger by fire.

they put in. The City Engineer had been instructed to have a number put in, and everything possible would be done to guard against danger by line.

Mr. Farnsworth said that the fire department was as efficient as any he ever saw, for the size of it, but that the great trouble was scarcity of water. He had been informed that there was a 22-inch main and a 10-inch main running the entire length of Main street, and that most of the hydrants were connected with the smaller one. It was such things as these that the insurance men were trying to have remedied.

Fire Chief Moriarity said that there was plenty of water if it could be got at. The water company had, he believed, complied with their contract as far as possible, and had put in plugs where they were not called for. What they wanted was more plut's connected with the 22-inch main. The department had formerly had the use of considerable zapia water, but this source of supply was now stopped, as they had been covered and there were now no holes into which a suction could be put. Improvements were also needed in the connections, which were now too small, so as to give a supply for two engines.

Mr. Sexton said that there had been no

Mr. McDonald remarked that he had discovered a state of affairs in the rear of the McDonald block that should not be tolerated in any city, and that Chief Moriarity stated that lie had ordered the premises stated that he had ordered the premises cleaned out.

Mr. McDonald suggested that it would be well for the commissioners to wait until Mr. Stillman's arrival, when the matter could be discussed intelligently.

Mr. Otey moved that a committee of three of the underwriters be appointed to consult with Mr. Stillman and formulate their ideas, which would then be presented to the Board of Fire Commissioners, and suggested Messrs. McDonald, Sexton and Grant as such committee. Mr. McDonald, however, thought it would be better for the underwriters to appoint their own committee.

Mr. Humphreys heartly indorsed the idea of coming together and discussing matters, and he would take pleasure in carrying out any suggestions that would keep down insurance rates or make them lower. He was in favor of making the water company stand up squarely to its agreement.

Marie Compagness and the city had outgrown itself. There were many defects, and they would be glad to receive suggestions as to how they might best be remedied.

Mr. Teed thought it would be advisable for some of the underwriters to ride around with the Fire Chief and see what was needed.

After some further general discussion as to fire engines, etc., the meeting adjourned to 11 o'clock this morning, when the report of the underwriters' committee will be presented.
Mr. Stillman arrived yesterday afternoon and will assist in the conference.

THE CONTEMPLATED RAISE.

THE CONTEMPLATED RAISE.

It was learned by a Times reporter yesterday that a general raise of 25 per cent. had been proposed in the meeting of the underwriters, but that it did not meet with general approval, and was accordingly modified, so as to refer to certain risks only. Just what effect Mr. Stillman's presence will have in the matter is not known, but it is believed that should the recommendations of the underwriters be complied with, there will be no advance.

A Social.

The Young People's Society of the Grace crowded with young and old people, who all gave evidence of the thorough enjoyment of the evening's entertainment, nor was the pleasure confined to the circle of the people of the society and their friends, but strangers were kindly introduced by the president, Mr. Bangerter, to the meabers, who yied with each other in the cordiality of their welcome. A Times reporter was yesterday detailed to look the matter up, and the sequel, as related by friends of the lady to whom she has confided her story, is as follows:

Something over two years ago a Mr. and Mrs. Ingersol and their little daughter arrived in this city from Chicago. Mr. Ingersol was an invalid, suffering in the last stages of consumption. Mrs. Ingersol was and is today a beautiful and attractive woman. At the time of her arrival in Los Angeles she had barely passed her teens. She is a tall, graceful, cashing blonde, with bewitching eyes, a pretty mouth and perfect teeth. During the winter following his arrival Mr. Ingersol died, and the lovely and attractive young w.dow was apparently free. Her freedom was only apparent, however, for her heart was alresdy enmeshed in the toils of a second love.

During the last days of her husband's filmess, and in an evil hour, Mrs. Ingersol met in this city a man who calls himself Hall, and who claims to be or to have been an attorney. Hall paid court to the pretty woman, and she confided her business to him. Hall wormed from her the fact that $5000 insurance money, and other property, would fall to her upon the occasion of her husband's death, which was imminent. He also learned that her father, who lived East, was aged and close to his end, and that upon his demise Mrs. Ingersol's wordly wealth would be materially increased.

With the increase of his knowledge of Mrs. Ingersol's affairs and prospects, Hall's interest in her increased; and when Mr. Ingersol passed away, Mrs. Ingersol's sympathetic friend pressed his suit with such across and success that the pair were shortly afterward made one—they were married.

They went East to settle up the dead ingersol's affairs. The $5000 insurance was paid over to Mrs. Hall ned enjoyers, and in the settlement of the dead man's estate other values came into her possession, all of which she lovingly and trustfully confided to the care of her brand new husband. In the meantime, the lady's father had died, and from her father's estate she received her portion, which contained among other values $700 in cash. During the past week there has been so ning in this city a man whose life story ht serve as the basis of a romance, and portion of whose career postesses a pecuar interest for Americans. When Gen. and made the tour of the world, he visited be Holy Land. Disembarking at the anomal port of Joppa, the General and party de overland to Jerusalem, where he was selved by the Turkish Governor, the sha of Jerusalem.

Hely City. Here the Pasha of Jerusalem and his suite awaited the coming of the great American soldier, whose fame had preceded him. Wad-el-Wurd was attached to the Pasha's suite as interpreter, and in that capacity he acted between Gen. Grant and the Turkish Governor, who ruled, and who still rules, the Holy Land.
Learning of Wad-el-Wurd's connection with Gen. Grant while in Asia, and that the rentieman was in the city, a Times reporter sought him. He was found at the St. Eimo Hotel, and proved to be an affable, well made and well-preserved geatleman of about 47 jears of age, with hair and beard well tinged with gray.
Wad-el-Wurd is a native of Jerusalem, the gribe of Levi. He is a scholarly man, havmg been educated in Europe. He is also me of the most accomplished of modern inguists, speaking, reading and writing 13 proper languages—English, French, German, Russian, Italian, Spanish, Turkish, fuldavian, Arabic, Hebrew, Chaldean, Kyptian and modern Greek; in addition of which he can jabber in a multitude of autois and dialects.

This polygiot Judean claims to have add the circuit of the globe three different times, and that he has spent 20 years travel. At present he is accompanied by a wife and three beautiful children, two iris and a bright little boy, who bears the agreetive name of Well-lone Wurd.

Mr. Wurd is a Christian, of the Presby-rian order, and, under the auspiese of the bristian uninisters, has been lecturing in echurches East; and in Oregon and Calima. In interviewing this remarkable maracter the Times reporter elicited the slowing:

a black horse, an intense, glistening black, aparisoned in scarlet velvet and gold willion. The presentation of the steed was a mere matter of Turkish form. The serve whom it was presented was not appeted to retain the animal; that charger and his royal accountrements had served anny times as a pretended present.

"When the presentation was over Gen. Frant quiety stepped forward, and within making any answer to the presentation didress, commenced a critical examination of the superb beast. He wilked around the beautiful animal, and, diressing no one in particular, ejaculated: faguificent, magnificent. Then turning to his party, he commanded some one or bring forward his own horse, the horse upon which he had ridden from Joppa, a crawny, but rather lively bunch of bones. Jpon that animal, and not upon the Araian charger, and attired as I have deribed, Gen. Grant rode through the triumphal Gate—the Gate of Damascus, and into the city of Jerusalem.

As before stated, the slay was cold and risity, and that evening and night a heavy all of snow visited Jerusalem, something hat had not occurred for generations. All hose things taken into consideration, to there with the popular disappointment unlaive to the General's appearance, his sounting and attire, and the fact that he chused to inhabit the house prepared and itself up for him by the Turkish authories, riding instead to the public caravancy, took all the starch out of the affaired dup for him by the Furkish authories, riding instead to the public caravancy, took all the starch out of the affaired on the following start particles of supper he was to attend the General, and was with in from the moment he entered Jerusana until he embarked at Smyrna. That wening no one visited Gen. Grant. Veryou in the service of the Pasha?"

"No, sir, but the Pasha's power is about the new ants wice he commands it and it must be renered. Compensation receives no thought. Then Gen. Grant reflect to his room on the microst of the fall of the pash to a the surface of the country, aft me: "If you do not stop this work immediately I leave Jerusalem this very night."

As I left the room I heard the General mutter: 'Nothing for me from the Turkish Government.' I delivered the General's message verbatim. The work ceased. There was no illumination."

"Did Gen. Grant dispits a religious spirit white in the Holy Land?"
"Gen. Grant was, to my mind, strange and hard to understand. The General was not a professed Christian, therefore I cannot say that he displayed a religious spirit. That is to say, he showed none of the stereotyped forus that are supposed to accompany the stereotyped understanding of the phrase, religious spirit. He did better, however, he displayed the spirit of reverence and humility. When on the Mount of Olives one of his party reminded him that he stood where once stood the Son of God—the Redeemer of men—a melancholy shade passed over his countenance. He cast his eyes downward, and after a dead silence, lasting several minutes, in a deep voice he slowly said: If am not worthy to stand on this ground. Another pause ensued, when suddenly the General looked up, and, in a firm voice in which I could detect the tinge of command, he exclaimed: Let us pray." The prayer was made by Dr. Nawman. It is evident that there are wider complications than appear on the surface of this suit, and it is probable that changes are to take place in the management of the company of a serious nature. We certainly hope that Messrs. Hanbury and Garvey will be able to extricate themselves from the unfortunate predicament, and obtain their just dues.

An air shaft was found sunk so as to cut the top lodes, and is so constructed as to meet a tunnel run from the level of the river and which meets the lower ledges. The air shaft is timbered on top only, and is at present but 40 feet in depth.

One feature in the matter of expense will be the saving of timbering, the location of the different tunnels being run through material not requiring the usual propping and studding adopted in many of our richest mines and the large amount of money necessary for the same, eating up much of the profits thereof.

Mr. Clarence A. A GEORGIA LIFE ROMANCE. How True Friends Secured a Big

Fortune by Their Fidelity.

[Savannah News.]

A pretty little romance has just culminated in Rabun county, Ga. At the base of Tiger Mountain, half a mile off the main road leading to Clayton, lives a small farmer named George W. Dillard. Mr. Dillard is about 60 years of age, living with his wife and two sons, the latter aged, respectively, 30 and 25. Early last summer Mr. Dillard went to his neighborhood postoffice, where he found awaiting him a letter covered with post-marks, which denoted that it had traveled a leng distance to reach its destination. The superscription was written in a familiar hand, but one which he had not seen in a generation. He tore the seal and read the missive, and, sure enough, found it to be from his wife's brother, whom he had seen for the last time in 1849. At that time James McCurrie was a young man, as was also George W. Dillard. The news had reached Georgia of the wonderful gold discoveries in California. Young Georgians who had gone there had written back glowing accounts of the fortunes which were being made. These descriptions had the effect of drawing still others southward to the great Eldorado. Among those who were full of the excitement were McCurrie and Dillard. They had perfected all arrangements to go, and were bidding the family good-bye when Dillard faltered. The tearful eyes of McCurrie's young sister touched his heart, especially as she was weeping for him and not for her brother. Throwing down the bundle he held in his hands, he declared that he would stay if the girl would marry him.

To this she clieerfully agreed, so Dillard remained a Georgia farmer, while McCurrie jumped into the stage coach and was borne away. Since that time he had never been heard of. It was with mingled feelings, therefore, that Dillard started to read the letter from his old comrade. The letter was a soiled one. McCurrie stated that he had worked against adverse fortune, declining to write to the folks at home until he could strike it rich, but every year found him striking it poorer, an more was heard from him. Last Saturday a large official envelope was received at the little postoffice. It bears the inscription of a strange hand. The neighbors, one by one, dropped in and told Dillard about its arrival. It was too late for him to get it then, but he was on hand early Monday morning. As he read it his hands trembled. It recited that James McCurrie was dead; that he wished to test the fidelity of his sister's family; that their prompt re-sponse to his appeal had moved him, and that by his will his property in California, valued at $1.600,000, was willed in count certs to his sister her

The Peer of Town Sites,

SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILWAY

Among the coming towns of Southern California, no town has been laid out on a more substantial scale with a view to future growth and prosperity than South Cucamonga, San Bernardino county, Cal.

Forty Miles East From Los Angeles

Its location is one of the most charming it GREAT CUCAMONGA VALLEY, Situated on the gently sloping plain, at an altitude of 852 feet above sea level, and within full view of the grandly towering peaks of the magnificent Sierra Madre range. Old Baldy magriflocat Sierra Madre range. Old Baidy, with his superb height of 9000 feet and beary, snow-crowned tops, and Cucamonga, with its grand height of 5000 feet, together look down in majesty on the lovely valler at their feet, where, in most charming contrast, may be seen, far as the eye can roam, orchards of orange, lemon, lime and olive, and vineyards laden with semi-trouled fruits, and fields clad laden with semi-tropical fruits, and fields class with verdure and laden with perfume.

About three miles to the west may be seen the flourishing town and colony of Ontario; to the northwest, about the same distance, the old, world-renowned Cuckmonga vine-yard; to the north, the fine new town of North Cucamonga; to the northeast is the village of Etiwanda, and to the southeast, Riverside, Colton and San Bernardino, and immediately to the southwest is the rich and prolific Chino ranch, South Cucamonga being the great central point.

The climate of any section being dependent largely in distance from the sea coast, altitude of surface, relation to mountains, and general topograpy and contour. These conditions are perhaps as nearly perfect in Cucamonga as can be found anywhere in the world. The distance from the sea coast savares freedom of the town.

The soil is superior and rich sedimentary deposit, of extraordinary deposit, is loose and easily worked, and retains meisture for a great length of time, requiring very little irrigation. Those who are thoroughly competent to judge have pronounced Cuoamonga, taking soil and climate together, to be far superior to the famous Duarte and Riverside orange belt for raising oranges, lemons, etc., while it is entirely free from scale. The company also offers lands in 10, 20 and 40-acre tracts, with water, adjoining the town site of South Cucamongs.

No new town in Southern California has brighter prospects for becoming a railroad center than South Cheamonga. Aiready it has two great continental lines, the Southern Pacille forming the boundary line to the South, the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe a short distance to the North, with two projected lines—one to Riverside and another to Sait Lake City.

A fine new passenger and freight depot, just completed by the Southern Pacific Railway, adds greatly to the comfort of travelers and general attractions. Over thirty trains pass through Cucamonga daily.

To secure the comfort of visitors, the fin as been spared in the appointments and fu nishing to make it first-class in every respect, while the rates will always be res

The grounds surrounding the hotel and in the park adjoining have been tastefully laid out with all kinds of tropical shrubbery, ever-playing fountains, etc., by an experienced landscape gardener, and over 20,00 trees have been planted in the streets of the town. Telegraph, poetoffice and express offices are already established, and the company intends shortly to erect a number of fine stores, private residences, and also contemplate the erection of a fine bank building. Lots have been set aside for school and church purposes, park and hotel grounds have been tastefully laid out, and over 20,000 trees planted on the streets of the town.

The lots are all good and perfectly level, and the company have placed them on the market at the lowest possible price, in order to enable those buying to realize a handsome profit within a short space of time. Compared with surrounding tows, there are no prices as low. In Ontario, the pearest town on the west, similarly situated lots are now selling at from $1000 to $1400.

A town backed by the extensive influence of prominent railroad officials, and such representative men as H. M. Hellman, W. H. Goucher, C. F. Smurr, T. B. Henry, John B. Jackson, A. A. Staunton, H. M. The Cucamonga Land and Improvement Company, during the last few menths, have been sparing no expense in improving and beautifying this splendid property and getting it ready for sale and being now assured of its great success as the coming town between Los Angeles and San Bernardino, have formally announced it on the market. market. SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 18.—[Special.] Acting Health Officer Dr. Gale states the smallpox is net so widespread or malignant in type as thought by many. The disease appears in a much milder form this season than in 1868. Of 107 patients in the Twenty-sixth-street Hospital only some 20 are confined to their beds, and the remainder are walking about the premises. Dr. Gale says there is still room for 50 more patients in the hospital and that the rooms are high and well ventilated. The cold snap in this vicinity has abated, and doubt-less the disease will disappear with a re-turn of our usual temperate weather. The Evening Post severely criticized Dr.

Gale's management of patients, and claims that his act in sending a healthy woman to the pesthouse recently, and keeping her there for a week without proper diagnosis of her case, is inexcusable. It publishes today a certificate from Dr. J. Campbell Shorb, a former member of the health board wherein he states that he has can fully examined the woman, and utterly failed to find any evidence whatever of the disease. hina Negotiating for Funds-How the Corean Embassy Gave the Mongolian Monarch the Slip and Got Away.

By Telegraph to The Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 13.—[By the Associated Press.] Chinese mails arriving by the steamer Gaelic today have little news on Corean matters, or about the treaty with Portugal.

The Datly Press says that the statement made by the Tientsin correspondent of the Shanghai Mercury that the Hong Kong and Shanghai Bank has concluded a loan with the Chinese Government for 6,000,000 taels is not correct; no such loan has been nego-

Previous to the sailing of the Corean embassy to the United States, the King of Corea had received telegraphic instructions from the Emperor of China, conveying a decree that Corea, in sending envoys to the Western States, must first ask instructions, and they will go after consent is received, which will then be in accordance with what is proper for a dependent state. The King, on receipt of the Emperor's edict, prepared a memorial wherein, after acknowledging China's suzerainty over Corea, he recites the facts that special permission had been granted in the first instance to enter into a treaty with America, that afterward several other nations of the west had concluded treaties on the basis of the former, and that the King's little State, anxiously considering the situation and desirous of keeping treaties, had nominated as envoy, Pak Chyeng Yang to be plenipotentiary and to proceed to take up residence in America, and Cho Corea had received telegraphic instruction plenipotentiary and to proceed to take up residence in America, and Cho Chlenhi to be plenipotentiary, and to proceed to take residence in the five States of England, France, Germany, Italy and Russia. The King then begged further instructions and permission for the vassal envoys to proceed on their way. vassal envoys to proceed on their way, in order to fulfill the objects of their missions, and to be in accordance with the original treatile.

and to be in accordance with the original treaties.

That he did not wait for the permission asked is shown by the fact that on the afternoon of December 16th a Chinese fleet of seven vessels arrived at Chemulpo under command of Admiral Ting-just seven hours too late to offer resistance to the exit of the mission to the United States. Jho Sin Hwel, a dignitary of the third rank, was now in possession of the royal warrant to proceed as ambassador to the courts of Burope, He has just sailed from Chemulpo. No preparations have yet been made for the dispatch of tribute to China. The embassy to China usually starts overland for Peking early in December.

It is thought that some of the branch lines in Minnesota and Dakota will be closed for six weeks. It is feared the worst is to come. The wind is blowing hard on on all lines today and the cuts are being filled as fast as they are cleaned out. The storm of yesterday is now raging in lows, and a storm is expected to strike Minnesota Sunday, in which case there is no telling what the result will be. At Fargo the storm yesterday was the worst in eight years, with the mercury 47' below zero and a hurricane blowing. The Jamestown and Northern branch of the Northern Paclic is entirely stopped this morning. The blizzard's force is mostly spent and trains will be soon moving regularly.

Manitoba reports from the Northwest indicate a cold wave with a high wind coming from that direction. In fact, things look so dublous that railroad men will not venture an opinion when traffic will be resumed. Each line is putting forth every exertion to keep the Chicago lines open, but even that is almost an impossibility.

Mr. Vance said that the lines had been drawn closely by the President's message on the subject of the surplus and taxation. The contest had been fought out squarely and the question decided unquivocally on its merits. The question was, should taxation be enforced for the support of the fovernment or for the enrichment of private individuals. He declared that the control theory of the tariff was inequity, and he was opposed to the whole thing, out and out. He should not vote to put anything on the free list, the tax on which was pure revenue. He should strive earnestly to repeal taxation on the necessaries of life, and he should discriminate in nothing ex-

The San Jacinto Register thus chronicles the progress of grading on the branch railroad from Perris: "Now that the graders have moved to this end of the line and commenced work, things begin to assume a more tangible form. A recent drive along the line of grading as is seen anywhere in Southern California. As fast as the dirt is thrown up it is leveled off and packed ready for the tree. There is a large force of graders at work at either end of the line, and it is but the question of a short time when the two screen will come together and the work of grading will be completed, ready for the line."

Hickman Lecture.

Col. John J. Hickman lectured last night at Opera-house Hall, under the auspices of Merrill Lodge, No. 299, on temperance, to Merrill Lodge, No. 299, on temperance, to an audience of about 300 persons. Col. Hickman is an eloquent speaker, and made a very favorable impression. He argued that prohibition does prohibit, and pointed to what had been done in Kansas and other States in proof of his assertions. He was confident that the day was not far distant when every State would have prohibitory laws regarding the liquor traffic. He paid a high compliment to the ladies, and said that with their assistance the cause was bound to succeed. Col. Hickman closed with an appeal for all present to enlist under the temperance banner and aid in the good work.

A QUEER GASE

The Club-Theater Gang in the Police Court.

A rather complicated case was tried before Justice Austin yesterday afternoon charged with robbing a man named Andrew Klippen of $46 at the Club Theater last Wednesday night. The complaining witness, Klippen, swore positively that he had $51.50 when he entered the place in witness, kinjeri, swore postately that he company with a friend samed Victor Hodell, also a German, on Wednesday night. The two went into a box, where Klippen treated his friends and the two girls, the four drinks costing $2. The friend then left him and went into another box, when he treated the two girls again, one of whom was sitting on his lap, this time costing $1.50. He said he then went to sleep with the girl sitting on his lap, and remained asleep until the show closed, when his friend woke him up and carried him home. He did not look for his money that night, but put his pantaloons and vest under his pillow, hanging his coat on a chair. In the morning his money was gone, and his watch was found in his pantaloons pocket. Klippen said he remembered distinctly everything that happened up to the time he went to sleep, and is positive he spent no more than $3.50 in treating the girls. His friend, Hodell, also swore to substantially the same thing, but said that both he and his friend were very drunk. These two were the only witnesses positive he spent no more than $3.50 in treating the girls. His friend, Hodell, also swore to substantially the same thing, but said that both he and his friend were very drunk. These two were the only witnesses for the State. William Franklin, a waiter in the place, was next -alled. He swore that Klippen had ordered four bottles of wine, for which he paid $5 a bottle, and four or five rounds of cocktails at 50 cents per cocktail, making in all about $800. G. W. Speers followed and swore that Klippen had ordered of him one bottle of wine at $5, and between $15 and $18 worth of cecktails, for all of which he paid. One peculiarity of these witnesses was their remarkable memory. Not only could they tell what every one in the party drank, but they had a perfect recollection of the order in which the liquor was consumed, and knew exactly the denomination of every piece of money that changed hands, whether it was gold or silver, and what change was given. This, when it is considered that there are 14 boxes to be served by two men, as they testified, is singular, to say the least of it, especially when the total amount just about tallies with the amount alleged to have been stolen. The barkeeper (Burns) testified that five bottles of wine were credited to the girls, but he did not know who to have been stolen. The barkeeper (Burns) testified that five bottles of wine were credited to the girls, but he did not know who paid for them, and the doorkeeper (McCabe) took the stand to say that Kilopen was very drunk, and had to be awakened with a few gentle taps with his billy, and volunteered the information that "these fellows get drunk and blow themselves in and then complain of being robbed." Ada King said she and the other girl had five bottles of wine and numerous cocktalls, but she couldn't say how many, which testimony was concurred in by Rita Hastings, the other defendant, and the case closed. Judge Harrison, who prosecuted the case, made no other defendant, and the case closed. Judge Harrison, who prosecuted the case, made no argument, but with a few sage remarks as to there being a powerful lot of cockatils, enough to slay every man in the room, submitted the case, and Justice Austin dis-missed the charge and discharged the de-fendants, who left the courtroom smiling. t was certainly a queer case all around.

B. C. PLATT.

He is Arrested on a Very Serious Charge, Yesterday B. C. Platt was arrested on complaint of John C. Bell, who claimed that on the 27th day of October, 1885, Platt represented that he had purchased some cattle from Allison Bros. of San Diego, and that he owed $200 on the trade. He also claimed that unless he paid the balance due the cattle dealers, he was liable to lose the cattle. Bell then kindly loaned him the $200, and soon after Platt left the city and took up his residence in Nevada, but returned here in December last. Platt pleaded not guilty to the charge of fraudulently obtaining money, and his case was set for trial before Justice Taney, January 25th, and bail was fixed at $250.

A gentleman who has lived in the county 35 years told me last evening that he never before knew anything like it. And yet I do not hear of any damage to citrus fruits in this section. Even the young growth on the orange trees here has not been affected by the unusual cold.

The plains were dotted o'er, Sunday, with the fastidious epicure seeking the fragrant mushroom, but the reversed appearance of the snow-clad mountains made this edible fungi uncertain and coy, and the delicate eater at supper was hard to please.

The Southern Pacific engineers, on the local trains going eats, have of late become imbued with the idea that it is style to run their trains a quarter of a mile beyond the depot before stopping, resulting in inconventience to 40 or 50 passengers, who are obliged to tramp that distance back to the station.

The hall was owded to overflowing, resulting in a irrest thronged with half dollars for e good ladies of the union. The promise was well rendered, the quaint ings and weird strains of the Southern negro being well received and ongs and weird strains of the Seuth-ran negro being well received and rarmly applauded. Mr. Ward, the founder of the Orange Tribune, is about to move to Pomons, and he, having bought an interest in one of the papers published there, will continue in the line of business for which he is by nature and practice so eminently fitted.

There is very great complaint by many different parties about trouble in paying taxes this year. The rush is so great that these persons, on visiting Los Angeles, are not able to learn even the amount due. Either the county is too large, the force employed at the Collector's office too small, or both. We camestly hope a remedy will be found very soon.

The late rains caused the walls of the brick-bank building to settle somewhat, so that quite a crack is visible, but, of course, prompt measures will be taken to remedy the defect.

The stand taken by Mr. Clemons of the Tribune on the temperance question is highly commended by our citizens and has made him many warm friends in our midst. He thinks that Orange should be incorporated "if for noother purpose than to abelish from our presepce the vicious induence of the rumbole."

The sudden rise of the San Diego Creek during the rain, washed away two bents of the street car bridge, but the timbers were found, and the place will soon be repaired. For one day the stream was impassable. There should be a good bridge for the traveling public put in immediately.

The horse-car to be used until the dummy engine, now being built at the Fulton Iron Works, Los Angeles, is ready, has arrived. The track is being put in good condition, and in a few days the long-expected street-cars will be running from Orange to Earlham. The proprietors of the daily Santa Ana Blade are to have a reporter in this vicinity, whose duty it shall be to collect news items and make sale of that publication to citizens here. But as for as, we have corresponded for The Trace for over four years, and expect to continue with this daily, and we are glad to work for its interests in preference to any other sheet published on this coast.

At the Lambs' dinner to Henry Irving, Arthur Wallack had the seating of the distinguished guests. Young Mr. Wallack endeavored, as far as he could, to seat these persons appropriately, but he concentrated most of his attention to the army and navy, and gave less to the editors, who, he thought, would be at home in any company, and so Charles A. Dana, the brilliant editor of the Sun, was placed between Gen. Sherman and John Russell Young, while Col. Cockerell, the managing editor of the World, had to be seated next to Col. Fellows, the new district attorney. This last calamity was fortunately avoided by the non-attendance of Col. Cockerell; but Mr. Dana was already seated be git John Russell Young out of the Tribune on the charge of appropriating Associated Press dispatches, out of which grew a big libel suit. The enmity has never been settled. On the side of Mr. Dana was Gen. Sherman, and between the two there has lived a deep-seated gradge ever since Mr. Dana was Assistant Secretary of Warduring the darkest days of the Rebellion. It may be well imagined what a
